Funding in place for 158 site RV park in South Bay

Good news for South Bay. After almost five years in the planning, ground should be broken in the fall for the first phase of a new 158 site recreational vehicle park just north of the city on the levee.

William Wilsher, superintendent with the County Park Planning and Design Division told city officials Tuesday night he foresees this as a big economic boon to the city.

"Typically, what we see happen when these parks go in is more tourists, gas stations, fast food places. You are ideally located here for visitors to want to come and stay," he said.

The RV park will sit on 35 acres near the city's new boat ramp facilities and will include a playground area, a pond, washer/dryer sites, restrooms at each cluster site, barbecue grills, tent sites and there will be an on-site manager.

The first phase of the park is projected to be open by the fall of 1994 and will cost an estimated $3 million.

"We're delighted," said Mayor Clarence Anthony. "This is much needed and without the RV park we don't see much economic development here."

Winners announced in AfriCamp essay contest

I can do great things because...

A total of 103 essays were received by the May 22nd deadline for the AfriCamp Essay Contest sponsored by the Zora Neale Hurston Roof Garden Museum.

The contest was open to residents of western Palm Beach County between the ages of eight and 18 years old. The theme was "I Can Do Great Things Because..."

A student at Glades Central Community High School, Charles Smith, won the first place award of $500 and Patricia McCray won the second place prize of $200.

There were three third place winners, Maurice Humphry, Alfredo Montoya and Shomari Sanford. Each won $100.

The winners were announced June 1 at AfriCamp's Black History Double Dare competition held across from Lake Shore Middle School.

"We were delighted with the support from area English and language instructors," said Hurston Museum executive Cartheda Konchellah.

Instructors from Lake Shore Middle School, Glades Central High School, Rosenwald Elementary, Pahokee Middle-Senior High School made the essay contest a class assignment, and their focusing attention on it made it all the more important to the students," she added.

"We received about 40 essays from Mrs. Davin's class at Lake Shore Middle, and we are happy that the Museum can be counted as a community-based resource for extra academic activities," she said.

Judges for the contest were Charlie West, editor of the Glades' newest newspaper, Common Ground; Brenda Bunting, editor of The Sun; and Nancy Smith, Gifted English teacher with the Palm Beach County School Board.

Family who lost child in house fire needs help

By BRENDA BUNTING
SUN Editor

The family of a boy who died in a house fire May 28 in Belle Glade is in need of clothing, household items and funds to get into another home.

Fifteen-year-old Ezekiel Kelam, an eight-grader at Lake Shore Middle School, was found dead in his home at 916 S.W. Ave. B Place about 10:30 a.m. two weeks ago.

He was home alone when the fire started.

He lived with his mother and grandparents who had gone fishing that morning.

The single family home was destroyed in the fire.

Four other children in the family, including a one-year-old, three-year-old, seven-year-old and an eleven-year-old are in need of clothing, according to Anne Hopkins, manager of the Glades office of the American Red Cross.

"We've put the family up in a motel for now and given them some money for clothing, but there going to need so much more," she said.

"For now, we're taking care of the basics, and we helped with the funeral arrangements, but this family needs more help," she said.

If anyone would like to assist this family, they can call Ms. Hopkins at 992-9703.

Eight inches of rain on Memorial Day causes flooding in Pahokee

By DAVID RANIERI
Staff Writer

Excessive rainfall helped put a damper on some Pahokee residents' Memorial Day weekend.

Pat and John Johnson, 441 Royal Palm Court, had pictures, clothes, music equipment and a new linoleum floor destroyed by five inches of water that flooded their home from a nearby canal.

John first noticed the water beginning to overflow from the canal at 11 a.m. Saturday. The Johnsons began to prepare for the flooding by moving some of their belongings on top of furniture.

On Sunday, the Johnsons were busy doing laundry, sweeping out the water and they even rented a pump to help alleviate the flooding that had occurred in their home.

John found turtles, snakes and insects in their back yard and front porch.

Last August, the Johnson experienced the same problem as water from the canal flooded their home.

Two blocks away Carolyn Brown, 442 North Coconut Road also experienced flooding in her home.

Mrs. Brown a Business Education teacher at Glades Central Community High School had eight inches of water in her house.

She found baits, minnows and snakes in her back yard.

Brown decided to abandon her house at noon Saturday and took her two children Crystal, 10, and Jalynsey, 14 to her mother's home.

"The only concern that I have is who is responsible for the canal and how can it be corrected," Brown said.

City Manager Ken Schenck said the East Beach Drainage Control District was responsible for pumping down the Pelican River Canal which runs near the homes which were flooded.

"The canals were very high because the farmers were using it for irrigation. Thank God we didn't get the rest of the rain they were predicting," he said.

While the water went down quickly, Mr. Schenck said that didn't help the residents who were flooded.

"We will be working with the District and with DER (Department of Regulation) to see what can be done about this problem," he said.

The Pelican River Canal may need to be deepened, Schenck said, and that possibility will also be discussed with the District.

Pahokee artist sells paintings to Reynolds

By BRENDA BUNTING
SUN Editor

Artist Diane Richmond Hall admires Actor/Director Burt Reynolds for his acting talent. Mr. Reynolds is a fan of her paintings.

He calls her his Pahokee artist and has purchased two paintings by Mrs. Hall in the past three years. Recently, he gave written praise for her work.

"You have a style that's yours - and yours alone! You are this year's own best, and every year's best because it's so much heart and talent together in your art! I am, and always your biggest fan," he wrote.

Mrs. Hall participated in the art show at Sun Fest this year. She won the Blue Ribbon Award of Distinction, a primary award, for her painting of a real-to-life watermelon titled "Five Easy Pieces".

She had 10 paintings in the show and sold all of them before Sun Fest ended except for the one which won her the $750 monetary prize.

Using a style of painting called photo realism, Mrs. Hall has become well-known for her work with Glades model Terry Branch.

Both paintings purchased by Mr. Reynolds were of Mrs. Branch. The first, an up close shot of Branch wearing sunglasses, was purchased by Mr. Reynolds in 1990, the year Mrs. Hall did the official Sun Fest poster.

The most recent one, titled "Golden Girl", is a back shot of Mrs. Branch overlooking the beach.

"Mr. Reynolds said the sunglass painting, titled "Sea Reflections", still blows him away," said Mrs. Hall.

It is an honor just to show her paintings at Sun Fest, she said, where artists must be juried to participate.

The process requires an artist to submit an application with slides of their work. A panel of judges decides whose work is good enough to be in the show.

Over 500 artists wanted to participate in Sun Fest. Only 120 were chosen.

Mrs. Hall said Burt Reynolds came to her booth before Sun Fest opened this year and purchased the painting of Branch.

"I try to make the women I paint anonymous," she said. "That way, if someone sees a resemblance to a loved one, it is more appealing to them."

Mrs. Hall has been painting for about 17 years. She was a student of Belle Glade artist and teacher Ann Tyler.

She now paints full time and said her goal is to paint the images she wants and for there to be a market for them.

She does about three shows a year and said she plans to spend most of this summer painting to build her inventory. She did the Beaux Arts Show in Miami in January and the Disney Festival of Masters in November.

In recent years she has also done a poster and a cookbook cover titled "Water's Edge."

Asked which painting she considers her favorite out of all she has done, Mrs. Hall says the last painting she works on is always her favorite.

Some of her paintings are in the State Capital in Tallahassee, at South Bay Growers, the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative and at a gallery in Jupiter.

"I believe God gave me my talent and provides the inspiration for my work," she said.

The Glades native has taught art the last three years, but plans to take off this summer to paint full time.

She plans to use Terry Branch again in some of her paintings, as well as Paige Lohmann. She also would like to use some male models.

"I plan to do more beach scenes, sunglasses pictures, a fruit series, women and water scenes," she said. "I also plan to do more watermelon pictures," she added.

Her husband, Ellis, is her business manager and builds her canvases. In return, she helps at his business, Padgett Electric, by keeping the books.

Mrs. Hall is a member of the Norton Gallery of Art, the Palm Beach Council of the Arts and the Norton Artists Guild.

Quota hunt applications available

Hunters interested in being among the first to hunt on state lands this fall will be able to pick up quota hunt permits applications.

Regular and special quota hunt applications for the 1993-1994 hunting season are available from the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission's regional offices, county tax collectors and their sub-agents.

Each year the Commission sets, for each wildlife management area, the maximum number of hunters that will be allowed during a specific time period. This quota system controls hunter access amid the high demand for public hunting land in Florida.

A regular quota hunt permit is needed to hunt during the first nine days of the general gun hunting season on most wildlife management areas. A special quota hunt permit is needed to participate in special hunts. Special hunts include archery hunts, muzzleloading gun hunts and some general and modern gun hunts for areas that offer a limited number of two- and three-day gun hunts.

To apply for quota hunt permits, hunters must purchase a 1993-1994 wildlife management area stamp or a sportsman's, lifetime sportsman's, lifetime hunting or five-year hunting license which includes a wildlife management area stamp. Hunters also must provide proof of purchase as instructed on the form.

What has happened to drug prevention?

I was told last year by someone (can't remember who) that the City of Belle Glade had a "drug dog." I understand the City of Belle Glade Police Department had a female handler and a drug dog.

What has happened to this dog? What has happened with the drug prevention program in this city? What is going on? Are we not interested in preventing the sale and use of drugs?

As a concerned school teacher and parent I feel this community needs to know what is going on in our town and our schools. During the past month Kindergarten and Secondary school children were exposed to an unpleasant situation involving the selling of drugs at this level.

The Belle Glade Police Department was called and responded. The entire problem was turned over to school security. They did nothing about the incident, except determine who had stole the drugs out of the aunt's purse.

We need action now. We need a drug prevention program with all the elements involved to stop this now. Get a drug dog, get busy, get something done. Use some of the resources we have available to us. Clean up our community. Help us clean up our schools and we will all be better off.

Don't cop out. Let's not blame this on school security or budget cuts or the lack of personnel and/or resources.

Let's get the job done. No excuses.

Police Chief Michael Miller responds:

"I totally agree with the concerns expressed by the caller and I pledge to residents of the City of Belle Glade to use all resources of the Belle Glade Police Department to fight the plague of drug abuse.

However, many of the comments made by this caller must be the result of being un-informed or misinformed. I will be most happy to discuss any of these matters with the caller or any other concerned citizen.

Media coverage appreciated

Dear Editor:

As Palm Beach Community College approaches the closing of another successful academic year, I would like to take this opportunity to personally thank you for your continued support of the College.

During recent years, PBCC's funding has been very lean. The media coverage provided by The Sun allowed residents of Palm Beach County to be informed of exciting new programs and opportunities made available through PBCC.

As we approach the new fiscal year beginning July 1, 1993, PBCC will be planning special events highlighting the College's 60 years of service to the community. If you have any questions regarding PBCC or its services and programs, we welcome your inquiry, as well as suggestions for improved media relations.

Again, thank you for your interest in Florida's first public community college -- Palm Beach Community College.

Sincerely,
Sheila E. Bertino, Director

Looking for Peace Corp volunteers

Dear Editor:

Could you help us locate some 80,000 missing returned Peace Corps volunteers? A fire in the 1970's destroyed all records of Peace Corps volunteers, so we're asking for your assistance in trying to reach as many returned volunteers as possible to tell them of a very special event for all Peace Corps volunteers, and their families and friends.

We are planning a conference celebrating the anniversary of Peace Corps and the continued leadership role of returned Peace Corps volunteers in global environmental issues which will take place at the University of California at Berkeley, July 1-5. The conference will be sponsored by the National Council of Returned Peace Corps Volunteers in cooperation with the Northern California Council of Returned Peace Corps Volunteers, one of about 160 similar groups of former volunteers and staff across the country. The event has attracted the attention of top national leaders.

In support of the theme, "Ecological Harmony", a variety of seminars, workshops, ceremonies and festivities are planned to examine how we can change human interaction with the environment, individually and communally. Workshops and a leadership conference are scheduled to empower participants to implement environmental projects in their own communities. In a demonstration of continued active volunteerism, a "Volunteer Day" has been set aside to contribute to a variety of projects for community improvement.

Returned Peace Corps Volunteers continue to share interests and to pursue the third goal of Peace Corps which is "bringing the world back home". The conference provides an opportunity to get together with other former volunteers and discuss global issues, problems concerning the countries they served in and to rekindle old friendships from abroad. For more information they can write or call the above address.

Established in 1961 by President John F. Kennedy, the first Peace Corps volunteer group trained at the University of California, Berkeley before being sent to Ghana in September of 1961. Since then more than 140,000 Americans have served with Peace Corps in over 110 nations. This year's planners expect conference attendance to be the largest of any returned volunteer event outside Washington, D.C.

Thank you very much for your help.

Sincerely,
Barbara Kavanagh Crowley

FPL offers consumers tips on how to keep cool this summer

With summer heat on the way, Florida Power & Light Company is offering consumers tips on how to keep cool with energy efficiency in mind. The tips are simple, and when implemented can potentially save homeowners hundreds of dollars annually.

"Air conditioning accounts for 40 to 60 percent of electric bills during the hottest and most humid months," said Gary Koester, FPL representative. "However, customers can save money while staying comfortable this summer by following some simple steps."

Here are six measures consumers can take to save:

- Give your system a tune-up. Have a licensed air conditioning technician check your system thoroughly. Regular annual service also can extend the life of your equipment.
- Change your filters routinely. Once a month, every month during summer, replace your air filter. It's a simple thing to do, and it can make a big difference in operating efficiency.
- Don't share your cool air. If a supply duct has worked loose from a vent or a connecting duct, the cool air from your system may never reach the rooms in your home. Have your ductwork examined for cracks, splits or bad connections. (FPL performs duct system tests at a reasonable cost and offers up to $225 for making recommended repairs. Call 1-800-DIAL-FPL, extension 58, and ask for the duct system test.)

• Keep an eye on your outside unit. Make sure your outside unit continues to run efficiently by keeping away weeds, leaves and other debris that can block air flow. If your outside unit is located in a sunny area, consider shading it to reduce coil temperatures and improve the unit's operating efficiency.

• Raise your thermostat -- to at least 78 degrees. You'll still be comfortable, and you'll save up to 20 percent on cooling costs. Ceiling fans can keep you comfortable at even higher thermostat settings.

• Shade your house. Good size shade trees can make a sizeable difference in your cooling bills. Plant them on the sunny sides of your house and in time they can help reduce your summer cooling load. Also, the more windows you have in your home, the higher your electric bills. Consider solar film, solar screens or awnings to cut your cooling needs. (FPL will pay up to $150 for the installation of qualifying window treatments. Call 1-800-DIAL-FPL, extension 58, and ask for information.)

These tips are most effective if your air conditioning system is less than 10 years old. Koester explains that a system older than that may have outlived its usefulness. "Running an older central cooling/heating system can really run up your energy costs," Koester said. "The best way to enhance efficiency is to replace it."

FPL offers customers cash incentives up to $584 to replace their central air conditioning with high-efficiency systems. The change also will result in substantial savings on subsequent electric bills.

For more information, call 1-800-DIAL-FPL (1-800-342-5375), extension 58, and ask for the "Cooling & Heating Discount" brochure or for details on FPL's free home energy survey.

Voter Registration renewal cards have been mailed

Supervisor of Elections, Jackie Winchester, announced that Voter Registration Renewal Cards were mailed on May 26 to the 34,980 registered voters in Palm Beach County who have not voted in any election during the past two years.

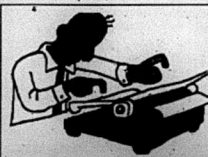

These voters must sign the renewal card and return it within 30 days of the postmark on the card if they wish to remain on the voter rolls in Palm Beach County.

Those who do receive the Voter Registration Renewal Cards are urged to sign and return the card right away so they will remain registered voters and be ready to vote in all future elections.

Many people who have moved from the address listed on the registration records without informing the Elections Office will not receive this mailing.

Those voters who have not voted during the past two years and do not receive a card, should call the Supervisor of Elections Office in the Glades at 996-4800 to check the status of their registration.

Members of Tae Kwon Do Plus take trophies at regional competition

The Kwon Do literally translates as hand, foot art and is the nationalized art of Korea.

Locally, The Kwon Do Plus is taught by Ken Mann in a plaza office across from Christian Day School.

Mr. Mann says the positive response to Tae Kwon Do in the United States comes from the many benefits of the training.

Beside the obvious, Mr. Mann says it is a dynamic, powerful self defense.

His students in Belle Glade recently attended regional competition in St. Cloud. Many of them came back winners, including Amanda Weaver, who took second place in Forms, Mallory Grimes, first place in Sparring, J.C. Cavazos, second place in Sparring and Forms, Samantha Gilbert, third in Sparring, Jason Haulcomb and Michael Weaver, who both took medallions.

Mr. Mann, a third degree black belt, grew up in Belle Glade. His family moved to Okeechobee in 1979 and he still lives there with his wife and two sons. In addition to the Belle Glade center, he has schools in Okeechobee, Brighton and St. Cloud.

Mr. Mann began his training in 1981, during his tour in the Marine Corps. He received his black belt in 1985, and began his first club soon after in Santa Anna, California.

"The Kwon Do is a fun, exciting sport for all ages. It's a great activity that the whole family can enjoy together," said Mr. Mann.

"The positive aspects are a result of personal growth, both mentally and physically...challenging yourself to be better all the time. This attitude of people working together and helping one another is what we call the indomitable spirit of Tae Kwon Do," he said.

Historic Preservation in Canal Point

Canal Point Renewal has recently renewed grant assistance from the community foundation from Palm Beach and Martin Counties to hire an economic intern this summer.

The intern program is operated by the Florida Department of Commerce and includes an intensive three day workshop in Tallahassee for the intern and technical support throughout the duration of the project.

CPR has hired historian preservationist Karen Milano as the intern to head up several historic preservation projects for the community. The projects will include development of the W.P.B. Canal, locksite, waterfront, acquisition and development of the Canal Point School and the old Custard Apple Inn, developing the lake trail project and finalizing a national register district nomination for the residential neighborhood north of the canal. Ms. Milano is also planning a series of workshops for the community on marketing, merchandising and small business development.

1. CPR, Inc. was officially incorporated in June, 1992 and consist of a general membership, committees and a board of directors. The officers of the Board are President Tommy Tillis, Vice-President Anita Brunson, Secretary Ross Harrington and Treasurer Frances Adams.

2. Membership is open to any individual, business, local government organization or non-profit organization. CPR's mission is to revitalize the neighborhood and community using historic preservation and tourism development as a tool.

3. For additional information on CPR and the Historic Preservation Projects, contact Anita Brunson 924-2061.

Local businesses make recreation center a reality

by David Ranieri
Staff writer

The City of Pahokee has converted the old high school gym into a community recreation complex with the help of area businesses.

Oscola Sugar presented the city with a 5,000 check and Robert E. Cocker, Director of Community of Governmental Affairs presented the city with a 15,000 check from the U.S. Sugar Corporation's Charitable Trust.

"We appreciate U.S. Sugar and Robert Cocker's help," said Mayor Ramon Horta. "We want to stress how helpful they have been to the City of Pahokee and the other communities around the lake."

Last week the City Commission named the new facility the City of Pahokee Community Recreation Complex.

The winning name was submitted by Commissioner Keith Babb.

Originally, 78 entries were submitted to City Manager Ken Schenck's office and from those initial entries five final names were chosen by the Recreation Department.

The gym is now open to all members of the public, but renovations on the building are still far from complete.

The classrooms, cafeteria, economic building and the back of the gym still need to be remodeled. The music room, auditorium and the junior high need to be demolished. The surrounding property also needs to be landscaped and U.S. Sugar has offered to help with that.

Mayor Horta is hoping to have a dedication ceremony for the new facility on July 3.

Calusa Lanes holds women's tournament

On Sunday, May 23, 45 of Florida's finest women bowlers assembled at Calusa Lanes for the Third Annual Calusa Lanes Invitational Classic Tournament, a ladies scratch tournament event. All the bowler's rolled eight games of bowling to qualify for the top five positions for a T.V. style roll-off.

After the eight games were completed, high qualifier, with a total of 1594 was Melinda Borges of Fort Lauderdale, in 2nd place with a total of 1566 was Joan Saunders of Fort Myers, 3rd was Judy Hahn of Wellington with a 1510, 4th was Karen Eades of Bradenton with a 1506 and in fifth was Shelia Comtois of Pinellas Park with a 1490.

In the first match, Comtois defeated Eades. Comtois then went on to defeat Hahn and Saunders in close matches. The final match came down to the last frame when Melinda Borges needed a strike on the first ball to win the match. Borges rolled the strike when he needed it and went on to defeat Comtois 202 to 187.
